President's Address

In our search for a name which would characterize the vision and heritage of our college, we could find none better than William Tyndale.

Tyndale was a scholar at Oxford, where he carefully disciplined his mind and spirit as he prepared to serve Christ in his world of the late 1400s. He also had a love and passion for the Word of God. In fact, he was so committed to the Scriptures and so disturbed by the lack of Bible knowledge of the clergy of his day that he promised he would work to ensure that even farm boys would know the Bible.

He then set about to translate the Bible into the common English of his day. His work angered the king of England and the Pope—to the extent that he was finally hung and burned at the stake for his work.

Such a model calls this generation to scholarship, to love for the Scriptures and to passion for sharing its message with the world, in its own language and culture. May we be so driven as was Tyndale.

Brian C. Stiller
President
Tyndale College & Seminary

LEADERSHIP??

Well, this is Kate & Anna, we have been nominated by Brian Stiller to tell you priviledge people about the leadership retreat (that you common folk couldn't attend). [Ed. note: That may not be true...]

We'll just tell a few highlights. There were freezing cabins and manure pits, mm. Jen fell in a pond and Drink fell in love with a sweet thing called Barren (woof, woof). Dave had a furry stalker. We ate too many smores and the best team that ever was created (ours), beat Drink's team in capture the flag. Just a side note, the way to success in C.F. is that of mission impossible, prowling lions and gaseous rumblings [??].

But on a more serious note, we had an amazing God-time in which we saw Christ. Lynn Smith, Pam Schock & Brian Russell shared their stories with us, encouraging us to keep growing and trusting in our Lord.

KJ did devotions every morning, each time pushing us closer to the goal of each Christian to be like Christ. And we had amazing quiet times to search our hearts and to look to God. We met people, bonded, talked, sang, laughed, played and enjoyed a restful weekend with God. [Talk to them in person for the more truthful, expanded version.]

Thanx, Anna & Kate

Scenes from the '98 Lead- ership Week

Certain Scenes From Last Year...

(r) Since the grad class couldn't sumo wrestle to make money, they chose to have a pie-in-the-face fundraiser. Apparently some people REALLY enjoyed it. But did Dr. Duez?

(fr) Rather than being roasted, these RAs were given a foot washing! [Ruth and Andra]

(mr) Andra's bridal shower. If you ever see her, ask her what she got sometime.

(blw) Nothing says fun like a velero obstacle course.

(bl) You could feel the love that 4 south had for Mak and Ash. It's a wonder Mak wanted to be an RA again!

(br) Don't ever lose a bet to Tricia Roes. Deb can still feel the wrath.

Summer Scenes

(far left) I think one is Rob and the other is Peter. Unless they're lying to me. I wouldn't like that. [Summer bar-b-q]

(left) Here we are, folks! The youngest person to ever be in a Tyndale yearbook. Phil and Jen don't get a prize for that, but Caleb probably doesn't care. He's only a day and a half old... and a month premature!

“...isn't that crazy?!”

My first time living in a college campus was pretty cool. At first it seemed weird. Saying 'bye to your loved ones and meeting all these crazy people showing you the way to register and giving you instructions...

The first day of orientation was neat. I met all sorts of people that are very cool. People I already know, people I did not know, people that are strange, yet cool...

While eating subs some guy that looks like Waldo pops up and runs around and disappears, then a guy named George stood up in front of the crowd and announced that the next day we had to search for Waldo in downtown Toronto. Isn't that crazy?!

That was my first time living in a college campus. [By Robert Lee]

(l) This is the lady that probably gave Robert the sub that he was eating when Waldo and George were running around. [Maria]

(bl) Robert finds a friend who bears a striking resemblance to Waldo...

(tr) Apparently Robert isn't the only one feeling odd about moving in.

(br) These are the people who were too busy posing in their new shirts to help Robert move in.

(1) Although he can't really do anything in the school everyone else Kevin is happy to just wander back and forth around the driveway. It makes him feel loved.

(right) "My beats are so phat. I got hangers."

(1) "Breakfast is for sissies."

(2) Like Kevin, Ruth likes to think she's helping out in her own special way. But I think she likes breakfast.

(l) "Only the reaper can put a stop to our friendship [Don't ask me. Doug wanted that one]"

(ml) Scoping question of the week: "So what do you think about Keith Green?"

(tr) "I love Niagara Falls!" [I don't get it either. Maybe you should ask Doug yourself]

(br) Jen says: "A pack of dingos is nothing to me with"

(l) These people have yet to find out that they're second cousins.

(f) Can you see that there is the doctor... It's funny I think I think he wants someone to find him.

(m) Me! C says: Yeah the food's good. But it hasn't been enough food for my liking.

(below) Dr. Duz explains the facts of life... Oh wait that was that other banquet. At this one I think he goes to a school "how to pick up."

(f) I don't know why these people look so offended. At the speaker said that everyone should immediately sumo wrestle while slapping the frosh nearest to them.

I'm finally finished. It's been four long, hard years. I'd like to thank all the profs for numerous extensions, for without them I would still be here. Also, the basketball team who have meant a lot to me over the past few years. And most of all, to you (you know who you are). In Him, Gary

Andrew Barber

Once, long ago, I was just a simple man. Content to walk through the green forests of the rich lands north of York. But then the wars began and once again I was called upon to take up my hammer. I am Barber. Master of the forge.

I knew when the wars began that I would be needed again.

Legend spoke of three men who would take up weapons, forged by my hand, to fight against the evil.

The first was Nagy, a hunter by trade, for whom I crafted the spear of Kaervek. Many a minion of evil would fall beneath his feet. Then came a second man, quick of mind and swift of hand. It was Dave who took up the ancient sword of Jumari; Renewed in the fires of my forge. Finally, out of the swirling snow of a fierce winter gale strode Adam; A woodcutter who possessed the mirth of a hundred men and the strength of a thousand. Once again the fires of my forge grew hot and after hours of work I brought forth the axe of Omakiros. Then, in the wee hours of the morning did we set forth, each man with his weapon and I with my mighty hammer of Wonk, to fight again for the freedom of all.

Nat Brettell

Thanks for all the fun times that many individuals have provided me, but two people in particular. First, I want to thank "Liz" (my favorite teacher), for making part of my education fun. Also to Mak, for being my friend and constant RA.

Makarios Darawi

Malcolm Forbes once said, "The purpose of education is to replace an empty mind with an open one."

Well, I didn't come to Tyndale with an empty mind, but with a closed one. Studying here challenged my thinking and helped me to be open minded enough to ask the hard questions.

Because there was an even split of grads with write-ups and grads without write-ups, we're trying something new:

David Johnston

It seems this world has gone on for all eternity. I can no longer remember a beginning, nor can I foresee an end. It consumes all. North of York is a wasteland of graveyards turned battlefields upon which we do battle with the never ending legions of the dead. Jamuri my sword has struck down legions of their foot troupes. Douglas Nagy and Adam of the Hall stand by me with the weapons of the legend, mastersmith Barber.

Genee Medja

First of all I would like to thank God for his help and encouragement in my study. If it was not God in my education, I would not be able to complete and successful in my studying. To him be the glory! Tyndale is one of the sources for cognitive and spiritual development in my life. I am greatly appreciating all of the professors who aquatinted with me in a college. I have learned a lot of things that impacted my life. I would like to pass my especial appreciation to my wife Hiwote, pastor Dan, Dina, the rest of my family and friends for your great help and encouragement.

Karen Miller

Various roommates, musicals/plays, movies, quirky professors, OBC-Tyndale, U2, hair colors, concerts & festivals, Taco Bell, not enough family visits, Connect 4, things I want to forget, things I'll never forget, people I already miss, endless talks, laughs, torments, cameras & contests, miracles, failures, dorm suppers, inclusive language, apes, and now...? Thanks to those who contributed positively to my life. Thanks especially: KD (floor-drop?) and DN the ancient hunter (Mieutz?).

Vanessa O'Hara

So basically it was insanity!
We're outta here Shmath.

Douglas K. Nagy

In the year of our Lord 1999 the battle against the undead wages on. I suspect this war shall continue for quite some time. The undead are very ill-tempered. It seems the only joy they get is from being dastardly. I have fought in this war on the plains north of York for over 3 years now. The undead hordes have claimed many souls thus far: Sir Revill, Sir Mack, Sir

Osaretin Omoghan

To God be the glory for the grace and patience he gave to me for all this period. The world is out there for me, I still pray for his grace to help me set a mark that will benefit the whole people.

Lapsley, Sir Kightley and Sir Daley in addition to many others that I do not have the composure to mention at this moment. But with the blessed spear of Kaervek forged by the mastersmith Andy Barber and my battle-ready companions from the lands of Essex (Sir David the swift and Sir Adam the mighty), I hope to end this war and start life anew. May the wretched dead be smitten and forced back to their unholy graves never to return again. For justice, for peace, for freedom, and for inexpensive BMX parts, it is for these things that I shall battle until the day I die.

Sarah Post

Residence, Cinn-a-buns-runs, prayers, hospital visits, Columbia, life-time friends, laughter, tears, new insights, deep convictions, huge disappointments, many blessings, early morning classes, late night studying, good grades, not so good grades, appreciation for History, Literature and Theology, preaching, Yukon, SCHRIEK, break-ups, new romances, PCFAH, engagements, weddings, parties, Second Cup, coffee, white hot chocolate, candles, canoe trips, the Beaches, sandwich runs, vendor hot dogs, volleyball, football, basketball, U2, Who's the Man, Parkway, Fallingbrook... Thanks to my family, friends and faculty who have shown me love and guidance, and to God, who has led me these three years. "All that I am or ever hope to be, I owe it all to thee."

Liz Ratz

I thank God for giving me the opportunity to go to Bible College. I have grown to understand God's Word more. Favorite verse: Jeremiah 29:11

Sandra Scott

I thank God for the privilege that he gave me to attend Tyndale College. I am very grateful for the knowledge that I have obtained from my wonderful professors. I thank God for their ministry, support and encouragement over the years. I have been blessed with many great friends, and thank God for all of them.

Donald Stewart

With gratitude I extend my appreciation first to God who has given me the will to endure to this end, and blessed me with a virtuous wife who supported me sacrificially with our four children. I further thank my pastor, professor, local church and all those who have assisted me. I am grateful, again I say thank you all.

Cathy Vanderlaan

How do you sum up 3 & a bit years? It feels good to be done, even though I don't know what I'm going to do next! I can't tell you how thankful to God I am for going to school here. I've learned so much, but I also have more questions too! I LOVED living in residence and on my own. I have met a lot of amazing people- some who have become really good friends. Good luck the rest of you- may God always be your focus in no matter what you do. Take time for yourselves- enjoy your time here. My goal is not to work here after I graduate. Ness, we're outta here!!!!

Life on 3rd Floor

For those who have never ventured onto the third floor but wondered who lives there, the third floor is composed of seminary students, non-student residents, and overnight guests and commuters. For two weeks during the fall and winter semester, several rooms were occupied by students taking courses towards their Dmin.

Third floor can be described as a quiet floor, however, on occasion the silence is broken by the sounds of giggling females who flock to room 321 during open dorm hours. While the gentlemen of the floor are hardworking, they find time to interact with each other. It is not unusual to see the 3rd floor residents sitting in the hallway while having a conversation.

Tuesday evening prayer meetings were enriched by the musical talent of former Tyndale resident, Russ Haynes. Along with Russ, we had the privilege of praying with other commuters, DMin. students and guests.

A word from the RA:

This is my dilemma: I am dust and ashes; frail, wayward, a set of pre-determined behavioural responses, riddled with fears, beset with needs, the quintessence of dust, and unto dust I shall return. But there is something else in me. Dust I may be, but troubled dust. Dust that dreams. Dust that has strange premonitions of transfiguration, of a glory in store, a destiny prepared, an inheritance that will one day be my own. So my life is stretched out in a painful dialectic between ashes and glory, between weakness and transfiguration. I am a rebel to myself, an exasperating enigma, this strange duality of dust and glory. -R. Holloway

Dear girls--may you know the One who loves you and knows you deeper than the depths of comprehension. May you seek earnestly the One who created you and is daily creating you into the image of Christ Jesus.

I love you!
-Sarah

WHaT tO sAy AbOut 4 NoRth...

Sitting back and reflecting there is much one could say about our dorm, but for now let's reminisce over the many memories birthed in North. I'll try to keep it somewhat brief, yet still communicate the immensity of my own (and my other NoRthfOIKs) feelings and blessings witnessed through being in this dorm this past year. In starting this dorm simply RoCkS tHe mIC' in every which way. Spiritually speaking... God took us, a sinful and confused people and turned our heads back to dependence upon the "author and perfecter of our faith" (Heb. 12:2). Now God worked, but for those wondering if we had any fun through this, check this out...

North is... home of the very best in pranking and wrestling. It is the home of the Doug Man, as well as Hallster's Headquarters of the Hugging Ministry. It is the home of the once folk legend, now true to life 'elf.' Notably it is also the home of the Vatican (comprised of 1 Pope and 2 Cardinals)... as well as all that noise heard on every other floor (Ha Ha). It is home of the phrase 'Snookums,' as well as home of the Southern bathroom crusade. North is home of the Funkmobile... North is home of one funky smelling lounge (even when cleaned, thanks Hooge)... North is... Home. Peace. P.S. Never let the gospel be minimized (or trivialized) or grow stale in your lives and those you minister to Matt. 16:24-26, Heb. 12:1-3.

Well, it has taken awhile for me to be able to write this. I remembered all the laughs we've had--with Andrea jumping into the leaves and finding buried treasure, Jen the fish killer and who allowed Sarah to use a Karaoke machine. And with all this fun and excitement I have seen each one of you girls bloom into someone beautiful. We have gone through many tears and tonnes of smiles, and through it all God has wonderfully molded you into daughters of a King, princesses of heaven. You all make me smile with gratitude for you have taught me tonnes. So may the God of all the heavens and Earth keep you until the final day. Yours forever, Anna & Jen.

A General Note to the Public:

Let it be made known to all, both far and near, that the re-institution of 4 Central was a true success. And even though we have no washroom to call home, nor a cleaning closet to call our own, we have our pride. Yes sir, central's the place to be. But don't be surprised if you are caught in the crossfire of crazy men sporting cap guns, or swept into a royal rumble featuring foreign objects. Yet on a good day, if you stand in the right spot, you could experience a stereo effect never heard before--thrash playing on the right, "Holy Spirit music" on the left. Yet as diverse as we are, make no mistake about it, the pride of central abounds in the hearts of us all.

[A Message from the RA:]

Each one of us began this year with our own expectations and goals.

We were all at a different point in our spiritual journey. When we moved in here we had to make adjustments as we experienced a new community, a new lifestyle, and new personalities. God brought each one of us together to spend an intense 8 months learning together, eating together, laughing, crying, fighting... And it's been fun, hasn't it, as we've been stretched and challenged? Do you remember our theme verse? "Do not conform any longer to the patterns of this world. But be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is--His good, pleasing and perfect will." Rom. 12:2. We've had the opportunity to learn what that means as we've gone to classes, studied the Bible, attended chapels, and prayed together. We've had the opportunity to grow in our relationship with God. And now it's time to go our different ways. Remember that it's not what we've done this year that's most important, but rather how we will live our lives from this day forward. What will others see in you? Will they see the effect of Jesus Christ shining through you?

I've had a great time getting to know each one of you. We've had a lot of fun together and we've made many memories that I will treasure forever. Remember that each one of you is a beautiful woman of God. Never let go of your Father's hand, for He has a plan and a purpose for every one of you.

God is the only one who can truly satisfy and fulfill you.

Enjoy the life God has given you and keep laughing!

Missing: ?

Well my friends. South was a blast this year. The diversity in many areas has been excellent. Music from Christmas Orchestra to Petra, rap to country, celebrities from Wyatt Earp to Superman, Tomato Bob to Inspector Clouseau... And I guess you could also say that our dorm was made up of foosball champs and pool sharks.

We will all miss the wrestling matches between Darryl and Andrew, Andrew Ward's philosophical mind bogglers, Phil Bauman's Betta fish competition (which we never had), and yes, even the infamous 4 South 'puns'. We also give appreciation to our 'non-student' dormies, Simon and Alan, who will someday join the NBA with their skills in basketball.

Well, much more could be said about the unique qualities of 4 South and its members, but to keep it short, it was a great year. To all our dorm members we say, 'keep fit and have fun'!

Another scene from the South dorm supper...

5 South has been blessed with wonderful girls this year! Excitement is relevant at our end of the hallway. There's been weird incense aromas coming from Rebecca & Michelle's room when they were nowhere to be found. A search party took place for Melanie when she went missing into Elena's room for 5 hours. Then there's Richelle & Julie who, on average, like to go to bed at 4:30am every morning. Andra and Jessica have their unique way of livening up our hallway. These two find pleasure in broken umbrellas and fluorescent nailpolish! Martina & Julie are great for mis-hearing words: how about those buns Julie? The several seminary students we have remind us of quiet hours and how important they are.

We as RAs have learned from each other too. With Sherri preferring to plan ahead and Katie's spontaneous mind we've been able to compliment each other and work as a team. God has truly helped us through it all!

(middle right) The yearbook wouldn't be complete without a picture of Dave Cross and his parents. And a big yellow bus. And a very healthy lawn.

(below) Melody Hamilton doesn't drink water like most sane people. She likes to drink it through her left nostril and from under dripping school entrances. Oh that Mel!

(far right) Thanks to the miracles of camera filters, I was able to take this nice little couple and make them look dizzy. Too bad that's not a big deal. (Wes and Martina)

Go team!

Supposedly we have a hockey team too, but they're too mysterious for this yearbook editor to know anything about. Also, we do have lots of floor hockey and intramurals.

(t) New furniture! Personally, I think they're really taking only the crew from "After Dark" and trying to get people to come up with "O...cond...and I...of d...th...of...". They particularly liked Sherr and D&D.

By: Julie Sloan

About the contest...

As soon as the frosh arrived this year they were pelted with questions like, "Do you have a camera? I'm having a photo contest and it starts now!"

On November 30th the contest closed and the winners were announced at the Christmas banquet. These are the top 3 photos. By the way, I didn't have a 1st, 2nd and 3rd because, well, it's just easier this way!! --Karen Miller, ed.

Thanks: I'd like to thank God for giving me the creativity, endurance and drive required for such an enormous undertaking.

A big thanks to Leigh Straiton, Matt Barton and Brian Clarke for the assistance and understanding during the delivery crisis last year.

Thanks to those who helped out in all the little ways... film runs, rides, sorting stuff, leaving messages, posing for mug shots without giving me a hard time (ahem), people who gave me lists of names, computer-problem-solvers, RAs for helping organize the dorm shots, my team of caption experts, the groups I was successful getting pictures of (those who don't see their pictures in here, well, you should have called me!), my "models" (ie. Anna, Jenny, Adam, Steve, Doug, Katie, Davey J., Ray, Carolyn, Wes, Martina, Tony, Dan, Amy, Tasha, and basically anyone else who I chased around often when I had a crazy idea, or bought new filters), and all of those other people I've forgotten. I can't believe you people just read all of this. Look at the pictures! And now, the obligatory sentimental stuff from the editor:

This is the last page I'm finishing, so this is it for me. No more countless hours of planning, taking pictures, badgering people, calling Shauna my plant rep. (over crisis #1, #2, #8789...), getting pictures developed, fighting off curious people who want to see the photo-board before it's even finished, sizing, sorting, lay-outs, editing, being asked for pictures hourly, ticking off my student council management team hourly, drooling over new pictures, etc, etc. Thanks to everyone who took the time to encourage me with how much they enjoyed seeing the "Picks of the Week". That made it all worthwhile, and more. I can't believe the problems I encountered this year, but we managed to survive. Printers will turn on you at the worst moment. I hope everyone can see the joy in this book. It really was my baby. There are bound to be errors in here somewhere, but in spite of those, this book is a tremendous joy for me. As I'm writing this I can't wait until the day when I get to see this book finally finished, shining and new in my greedy little hands. This time I'll like the cover. I hope you like it too. -Karen

“ That person who was written in as the editor last year was my mother, Lucy Miller. It was a joke I didn't explain too well. ”

Can you find Waldo on the title page? He's very tiny!
